Counselor's Corner

This past summer a Beechwood team spent time learning about Restorative Justice. This team will in turn be working with the BKS staff to learn and implement restorative practices with our students. This will be a nice addition to the Culture of Care that we strive to foster at Beechwood Knoll School.

Restorative Justice practices are tools that help build community with students, strengthening communication skills and creating a sense of belonging. One of the features is the “Community Circle” during which participants practice speaking from the heart and listening to understand. All of these practices connect so nicely with our school values of respect for self, others and property.

We will begin by introducing these tools in the upper grades and look forward to seeing our school grow stronger as we learn together.

I hope your family is off to a great start to the school year. Please reach out if I can be of support to your child.

Maura Hurst, School Counselor
